DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. The indicated allowable subject matter claim 27 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference to Brunner et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,185,414).

Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

2. Claims 2-13,15-22,24-26,28-30,32-40,43-49 and 60-68 are allowed

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 27 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Laybourn, in view of Brunner et al.(Brunner),U.S. Patent No. 6,185,414.

Regarding claim 27, Laybourn discloses an accounting method for crediting an account associated with a network access node, comprising:

receiving a communication event message (i.e., reads on SMS message), wherein the communication event message inherently includes identification data (i.e., inherently SMS messages are addressed for delivery) representing a network access node, wherein the communication event message is received in response to the network access node receiving and forwarding a data signal on behalf of a network user node(i.e., reads on device 10); and crediting an account associated with the network access node based on the communication event message (col. 3, lines 45-58).

Laybourn fails to disclose wherein the communication event message is received in response to the network access node acting as an access point.

In a similar field of endeavor, Brunner discloses wherein the communication event message is received in response to the network access node acting as an access point (reads on switching node including call event generation means for continually generating real-time call event messages) (col. 2, lines 20-45).

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Laybourn to include call even generation means for the purpose of providing real-time debiting rate information (see Brunner, col. 2, lines 40-45).
